—The indictment of J. B. and Lucinda French of Freeport, for the murder of Lavina Willett, sister of Mrs. French, was quashed yesterday by Judge Crabtree, from a defect in the wording of the instrument. New papers were immediately prepared and the parties re-arrested and will be held to await the action of the next grand jury. The trial of of Frank Harris for the murder of Charles Bengel is set for Monday, September 30th.

—It is understood that two important changes in the policy of the M. E. church will come up for action at the approaching session of the Rock River Conference—the admission of female delegates to all future lay conventions; and the remoual of the time-honored time limit of itinerancy. It is expected that the Rock River Conference will elect a delegation to the coming general conference at Cleveland p'edged to work for both these changes.

—Don't kill our aldermen, they are doing the best they can, and at present are in the suds with the street pavement. They are criticised for carting the dirt that is taken from streets to be paved, across the bridge to North Dixon, when there are places on this side and near to the work needing the filling. We would advise waiting until the work is finished and perhaps there will be dirt enough to satisfy everybody.

—There never was anything small about Daniel W. McKenney—we mean big Dan—except, perhaps, the family he had in the early years of life, and now he appears to be making up for lost time. Again we can announce the birth of a fine boy at his home, and mother and father are getting on as well as could be expected; all of which we are pleased to announce with our congratulations. When Dan has a big family they can all "play in our back yard," look in the windows and "see the wheels go round" and watch the printers set type, especially as our yard belongs to him.

Address, Boston Powell. Guitar solo, Ed. McDermon. Vocal trio, Messrs. Hall and Houstons. Vocal solo, Mr. Stevens. Essay, Roy Houston. Vocal selection, colored quartette—Mr. and Mrs. George Mills, O. Hall and Eva Cook.

—We are assured by Sheriff Gray that the Barnum & Bailey show people do use every endeavor by a special detective police force to prevent robberies by a class of characters, not connected with, but which usually follow in the wake of all such exhibitions. He has received a request for co-operation with the circus police force for the protection of the city. The measures heretofore adopted have been reasonably successful for driving thieves out of the cities where the Barnum & Bailey shows have exhibited; but their immense exhibition draws spectators from a large circle of surrounding country, and in some instances the rural districts have suffered in consequence. The caution is therefore given that in the suburbs and surrounding country the people take such precautions for the safety of their property as prudence would suggest.

ANIMAL VISION.

Only One Bird Whose Sight Is Better Than That of Man.

Birds are commonly credited with an extraordinary range of vision. Circumstances lend aid to the development of the mental factors in their case. The usual distance at which terrestrial species use their eyes is limited by the ground horizon. But in the case of the soaring birds, such as vultures and eagles, the horizon, the natural limit of sight, is enormously extended. Macgillivray early noted that, though birds of prey have orbits of great size—the eyeball of the common buzzard being 1 1-8 inches in diameter—they do not, as a rule, soar when seeking their prey. The eagle when hunting flies low, just as do the sparrowhawk and the hen harrier.

Yet the vultures and condors, birds which admittedly do soar when seeking food, have been proved to find carrion by sight. A carcass was covered with canvas and some offal placed upon it. The vultures saw this, descended and ate it and then sat on the covered portion within a few inches of a putrid carcass. When a hole was made in the covering, they saw and attacked the food below. But the rapid congregation of vultures from a distance to a carcass is probably due to their watching their neighbors, each of which is surveying a limited area. Charles Darwin pointed out that in a level country the height of sky commonly noticed by a mounted man is not more than 15 degrees above the horizon, and a vulture on the wing at the height of between 3,000 feet and 4,000 feet would probably be two miles distant and invisible. Those which descend rapidly and appear to have come from beyond the range of human sight were perhaps hovering vertically over the hunter when he killed his game.

There remains one undoubted instance in which bird vision is far keener than that of man. The great gray shrike, Lanius excubitor, is habitually used by the men who catch falcons at Vallieusward to give notice of the approach of a hawk. The bird sees it far sooner than the men, and at once gives notice of its approach. This is a single instance in which the specialized acuteness of sight may be due to the fact that the bird in question much resembles in color the pigeons which are the falcon's favorite food. But long sight does not seem common property of bird vision. The gannets, which catch fish at sea, descend from a considerable height, but they kill their prey on the surface of the water or near it. Nocturnal birds and animals, though able to see with little light, have no enhanced powers when the light is more powerful, and those animals which, like deer, feed by night or day indifferently have only developed a keenness of vision from constant fear and vigilance. Horses and cattle, which have the same power of sight by night, have never increased their visual range. Dogs habitually rely on another sense, that of scent, in preference to their eyes and will walk over a dead bird while their brain is intent on discovering its place by scent alone. Weasels when hunting will run up to a human being who imitates the squeak of a rabbit and peer up at him to discover where the sound comes from. The smallness of the eye limits its powers. Just as the best telescope has usually the largest object glass, so the largest eye will probably be the best organ of sight, and in the absence of any extraordinary developments in the size of the organ itself in animals their power of vision must, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be supposed to be proportionately limited. — London Spectator.

Distances at Sea.

That man was laughed at who, on his first voyage, said that the ocean did not look so large as he supposed it would, but he was not alone in experiencing disappointment. The horizon at sea gives no idea of the limitless water beyond. A sea captain declares that the average landsman cannot see more than ten miles from the ship in any direction, and it would have to be a mountain or some stationary object for him to be able to distinguish it. The masts of a ship are said to be visible to the naked eye not more than five miles. —Brooklyn Eagle.

He Was Mistaken.

"All is over between us," said the young man who had found a richer girl and was trying to take leave of his old love.

"You are mistaken," replied she.

"All is not over. In fact, my breach of promise suit has not yet begun."

He postponed the transfer of his affections.—London Tit-Bits.

No Extension.

"Is the wind due east or due west today?" asked an evasive creditor by way of changing the subject of his debt.

"It's due now, and you'd better hustle to raise it," was the unfeeling reply.—Detroit Free Press.

An Egg of Indian Corn.

"Poultry" is authority for the statement that a pigeon in the possession of a correspondent recently laid an egg which on being broken was found to contain nothing but Indian corn. The same correspondent also stated that he had a hen which was crop bound. On opening the crop he was surprised to find, in addition to a ball of long grass, a full grown mouse.—Detroit Tribune.

C. H. KEYES & SON,

63 First Street. FURNITURE STORE.

—Wm. J. Gallagher is slowly recovering from a recent illness.

—Miss Nellie Thomas has gone to Knoxville to attend college.

—Roy Lennox, of Palmyra, cut his foot severely with a corn knife yesterday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seybert have gone to Colorado to see Miss Mamie Campbell who is seriously ill.

—William Barge and daughter Miss Lizzie went to Chicago today. Mr. Barge will accompany his son Charles to Boston.

—We are glad to learn through the Amboy News, that Josiah Little who has been long and severly ill, has become sufficent convalescent to be able to ride in his carriage to the bank and post-office.

—Davis & Baird have been making extensive additions and improvements to their green-houses, which are now about completed. They intend, we believe, to make a specialty hereafter of supplying the market with choice cut flowers.

—Will Dysart returned from Iowa on Saturday and he reports the crops over there as immense. On his farm in Hancock county he threshed eighty acres of oats that gave a yield of seventy-nine bushels to the acre, machine measure. Barely averaged sixty-five bushels to the acre.

—A Harmon correspondent of the Sterling Standard says: "There were some parties here hunting prairie chickens. They seem quite plenty this year." The plentifulness of crop we presume refers to the hunting parties; certainly not to the chickens; for parties from Dixon who hunted Harmon township all over, reported that they did not see so much as a feather.

The Coming Women.

There are, according to the last government census, one and a quarter million more women employed in industrial pursuits than ten years before. However, fifteen million more girls must join the milk, shoe and other factory hosts before equaling their brothers in the labor arm of this country.

There are in the United States one hundred and four thousand doctors, including over four thousand five hundred women; and one hundred and eighty-nine thousand lawyers, including two hundred and eight women.

AN AUTUMN COURSE IN GARMENT CUTTING.

Will open this week at the rooms of the Diamond Garment Cutter Co., over Countryman's store and with the coming of more favorable weather the prospects for a largely increased attendance are very flattering.

The Co. will make a re canvass of the city in the interest of their cutter and will also make a general canvass of the country, which has not as yet been canvassed. The result of the summer's work has been satisfactory as the number enrolled has reached close to 100 and this has been done at a time when vacations and outings were the order of the day. The intense heat of the summer will be succeeded by atmospheric conditions more favorable for practical application to home duties and the prospect for a large fall class is very flattering.

The graduates of the summer class are well satisfied with the instruction received and the Company has on file some fine testimonials from those who have given it a thorough test and all who have applied themselves as they should are delighted with the results obtained. The Company find that they are short of help to cover the immense territory into which they want their work introduced and for this purpose they will gladly train new men and teach them how to do the business successfully.

For this work they will need a large number of canvassers, managers and teachers and with the coming fall and winter they intend to enlarge their force very much.

The fact that they have in the past year in a limited area disposed of 11,000 cutters is pretty good evidence that there is a need of the work. With the return of prosperity in all other lines the prospect of success in garment cutter work is enhanced and its future looks very bright.

Local Manager Gregg will be pleased to see anyone who is desirous of getting employment at his office, Room 16 Countryman Block.

TALK AT THE CLUB

Anglo-Saxon Union the Subject of Discussion.

BRITISH-AMERICAN COMBINATION

The "Irridescent Dream" of Some Visitors at the Metropolitan, Washington—Or Is It a Knife-Thrust at General Schofield's Presidential Boom?—Proposed Coalition That Might Have Connected, If, Etc.—Sir Julian Pauncefote Not Sanguine.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—"Well, are we we going to have war," said Uncle Sam, as he smilingly adjusted the chip on his shoulder.

"Shouldn't wonder a bit; it looks very much that way just now," responded John Bull, eyeing the chip.

"And what will be the object of the war this time?" asked Uncle Sam. "Would you prefer Venezuela, Nicaragua, the Behring sea, or the Corinto affair?"

"Oh, no," said John Bull, emphatically; "it will not be any of those trifling affairs, but the one of supreme importance to both nations."

"And what is that?"

"Why, the yacht race, of course," said John Bull.

Nothing of Fiction About the Above.

This colloquy is by no means a fiction. It occurred in the grill room of the Metropolitan club here, between one of the secretaries of the British embassy and a leading official of the state department. They were typical representatives of their respective countries. They came together at the club after Lord Dunraven's withdrawal from the third race. There is an air of Bohemia about the Metropolitan club, for it is a center of gossip for the ministers and secretaries of foreign countries and the prominent public men of Washington. Generals, admirals, ambassadors, senators, representatives and supreme court justices here meet on a common level of social equality, and the club spirit rubs off the sharp edges of political and national feeling.

Talk About Anglo-Saxon Union.

After the representative Briton and American had enjoyed their little joke over the possible international conflict resulting from the yacht race, they drifted into a talk as to the trilling causes which lead to the talk of war between Great Britain and the United States. This led the Briton to remark: "There is a very earnest feeling among some of our leading English statesmen that a permanent union of the English-speaking people is not only possible but probable, and that if such a union is once accomplished it will make the English race the dominant factor in the world's progress. This was the dream of Gladstone twenty years ago, before he became absorbed with home rule. The strength of such a union is self-evident."

Some Alleged Oriental History.

"But is not such a hope rather visionary?" asked the American.

"By no means," said the Briton, "and you will be surprised to know how near it came to an actual realization within the last six months. When the China-Japan war was drawing to a close it became evident that outside nations would intervene. The press has already made known to the public that Russia, France and Germany stepped in at the critical moment and dictated to Japan certain essential features of the peace treaty. Japan reluctantly assented to this compulsion. Thus the Russian became the dominant factor in the developments of the far east, for Russia projected the alliance and France and Germany merely gave their nominal approval.

SOUGHT UNION WITH UNCLE SAM,

And Might Have Succeeded but for the "Ifs" in the Way.

"But while Russia was thus seeking to have the master hand in the affairs of the east, Great Britain quietly sought to effect an English alliance with the United States by which the English speaking people and English institutions would be dominant in the future development of the east. Lord Kimberly opened the negotiations with Mr. Gresham, but the latter answered that it was against the policy of the United States to enter into foreign alliances. The subject was not pushed by Great Britain. If it had been there is reason to believe that Lord Kimberly could have made it clear to Mr. Gresham that the proposed alliance was something quite different from anything which had resolved itself into a policy."

This talk of English union—the word English being used in the broad sense to embrace the United States and Great Britain—was recently discussed in a somewhat similar spirit by four distinguished gentlemen here in Washington. It was at a dinner given by Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, about the time that Great Britain landed troops at Corinto. Baron Fava's guests included General Schofield, commander of the United States army; Rev. Alexander McKay-Smith, a leading Episcopal clergyman of this city, and Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador. There was much excitement at that time over the Corinto affair, and the talk turned naturally to that subject.

Before they closed the topic they had agreed that English union was the surest way to the progress and upbuilding of the English-speaking race. Rev. McKay-Smith believed that this could best be brought about by a treaty of peace and arbitration under which the United States and Great Britain would agree that any future difference should be adjusted by arbitration and that neither nation should ever declare war against the other. Sir Julian declared that such a proposition would be hailed with satisfaction in Great Britain. He said it could be put through parliament very speedily and with almost unanimous public approval.

But, he added, he did not believe that the United States would ever countenance such a plan. The anti-English sentiment in the United States "as far too strong to allow of any union with Great Britain. He said Englishmen were at a loss to understand this intense bitterness. It was attributed in part to politics and in part to the American sympathy with the Irish cause of home rule. But whatever it is, Sir Julian felt that England was ready for the union and America was not. He believed, however, that such a union would ultimately be made and that it would make the English race all powerful the world over. General Schofield's views were along the same line.

General Harrison Leaves New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Ex-President Harrison left this city last night for Philadelphia. He will remain there a few days before going to his home in Indianapolis.

TERRIBLE MINING DISASTER.

Men Starve to Death Within Hearing of Their Friends' Voices.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 17.—Advices received by the Australian steamer Miowera say that the bodies of the victims of the Eldora mine disaster have been recovered after two weeks' labor. The men were working in McAver's mine when the banking made to keep off the river gave way, filling the outlet of the mine with slum. They were imprisoned, and almost within the hearing of the rescuers were starve to death. It took exactly fourteen days to reach the dying men, and in that time all were beyond the need of assistance. Evidence of the terrible suffering of the poor fellows at the last moments was heartrending.

Believing that they would be eventually reached by would-be rescuers, but knowing, too, that it would be too late, the men evidently held an ante-mortem council, for most of them wrote letters to friends and relatives from their living grave, and there were evidences of solemn intercourse before death ended their terrible sufferings. All but one of the men were found in a naturally-formed chamber, lying side by side quietly, as if sleeping. They wore peaceful expressions, and must before death have been lulled to sleep by the generated gases. Letters left show that they had been in conversation for twenty-four hours after their fearful imprisonment.

The following is one of the letters, verbatim, of a victim, written in pencil, and signed "Charles Dawkins:" "I am getting faint; no air, God protect me for the sake of my poor children and wife. Lizzie, look after them and bring them up good. The money I have in my box and bank is to be divided among the little ones. Make the best of what I have saved. God will be good to them. Kiss them for father's sake. I forgive my enemies. Love to all that are dear to me. Good-by, my dearest children." The messages were written in the dark, and it took six hours to decipher them.

No Light Fantastic for Methodists.

JACKSONVILLE, Ills., Sept. 17.—There was a lively time in the Methodist conference on the subject of dancing. W. H. Webster said that when he was in the general conference he had voted to retain the disciplinary law forbidding members of the church to trip the light fantastic toe, and asked that the conference here sanction that action. There were a few who might have liked to protest, but they were so dreadfully in the minority that they were not heard and the vote went through with a whirl.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — The true amount of the gold reserve at the close of business yesterday was $95,348,042. Since the recent heavy shipments of gold set in the government has received a number of offers of gold in exchange for notes. This is particularly true of banks in the northwest, where small notes are in active demand in moving the grain crops.

HARD ON DURRANT

Seen With His Victim by Three Positive Witnesses.

PROSECUTION GETS DOWN TO WORK

And Traces the Accused Double Murderer Nearly to the Scene of the Crimes, Beginning at the Normal School Blanche Lamont Attended—One Witness Who Watched the Accused Through an Opera Glass, Fearing He Was a Burglar.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Yesterday began the ninth week of the Durrant trial. The prosecution estimates that it will require fifteen days of actual court session for its direct testimony. For the first time the testimony traced Durrant and Miss Lamont. Miss Lanigan, a fellow-pupil of Blanche Lamont at the normal school, testified that April 3, when school was dismissed, she left with Alice Pleasant, now Mrs. Dorgan. They noticed Blanche Lamont in company with a man whom she identified as Durrant. Miss Lamont was smiling up at Durrant, who was carrying her books. They boarded a street car going toward Market street, and she could see the pair in animated conversation.

Thought Durrant Was a Burglar.

Mrs. Vogel, a new witness, told how she from her parlor window on the afternoon of April 3 noticed a man who waited about forty-five minutes outside the normal school. Asked who the man was, she pointed her finger toward Durrant and dramatically exclaimed: "There he is." Fearing that he was a burglar she watched him with a pair of opera glasses. When school was dismissed she saw two girls emerge from the building. Accompanied by Durrant they boarded a Powell street car. One went inside and the other sat with Durrant on the dummy. When Durrant was arrested she recognized him from his pictures in the newspapers. The defense was evidently much worried over Mrs. Vogel's testimony. She was very positive in her identification and stood cross-examination remarkably well.

Rode on the Same Train With Them.

Mrs. James Crosset, the last witness of the day, had known Durrant well for four years. The day Blanche Lamont was murdered she said she was riding on a Valencia street car when she saw Durrant sitting on the dummy with a young woman whom she did not know. She identified Durrant with great positiveness. Shown the clothes worn by Blanche Lamont at the time of her murder she said the woman she saw with Durrant wore garments of similar cut and material. The pair rode on the dummy as far as Twenty-second street, where they left the car, proceeding toward Bartlett Street. Emanuel church is on Bartlett street between Twenty-second and Twenty-third. Mrs. Crosset's testimony was not shaken by cross-examination.

ECKELS ON THE GOLD SHIPMENTS.

Says It Is the Result of Buying More Goods Than We Sell.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Hon. James H. Eckels comptroller of the United States treasury, made the following statement relating to American exports of gold on the request of a representative of the Associated Press: "Generally speaking, these gold shipments come about from the fact that the American people are buying a great deal abroad and not selling sufficient of their own products to equalize things, thus necessitating a settlement of the balance due in gold. We maintain a financial system which makes the United States treasury a general market of supply for all requiring gold.

"Consequently more or less embarrassment comes to the administration of the treasury department when these balances require to be settled. The system under which it is forced to operate makes it sometimes expensive to do so [maintain gold payments], but as long as representatives in congress refuse to change that system, and as long as the voters tolerate them, the people have no right to complain of the expense."

SIX PERSONS KILLED ON THE RAIL.

The Deadly Grade Crossing Adds Some More Victims to Its List.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 17.—Six persons were killed as a result of a railroad crossing accident at Lawyer's Station, eleven miles below here. A vehicle containing six persons, supposed to be Joseph Callahan, of Rustburg, Campbell county, Va.; two women, a girl of about 16, and two small children, was crossing the tracks of the Southern railway, when it was struck by the engine of a south-bound passenger train. Five of the occupants of the vehicle were killed outright and the young girl was so severely injured that she died shortly aftewards.

Investigating Legislative Boodlery.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Sept. 17.—The taking of testimony regarding the charges of boodling against members of the Thirty-ninth general assembly was commenced by the Sangamon county grand jury yesterday afternoon. Captain D. H. Harts, a prominent lawyer of Lincoln and a recent Prohibition candidate for governor, appeared before the grand jury and stated that a party whose name he gave had informed him that between $2,000 and $6,000 had been paid out to secure the passage of the mechanics' lien law.

Stern Must Serve His Sentence.

BERLIN Sept. 17.—Theodore Runyon, United States ambassador to Germany, has made a second application to the district attorney at Wuerzburg in behalf of Louis Stern, of New York, who was recently sentenced to four months imprisonment at Nuremberg for insulting Baron Thuengen, associate justice in Kissengen. Runyon has been informed that the sentence of the court must be sustained.

Rebellion Breaks Out in China.

HONG KONG, Sept. 17.—It is reported that a rebellion has broken out on the border of the Province of Fo-Kien. TILLMAN BROTHERS HAVE A TILT.

Little Diversion in the South Carolina Constitutional Convention.

COLUMBIA, Sept. 17.—The proceedings of the constitutional convention were characterized by a most exciting tilt between Senator Tillman and his brother George D. Tillman on the question of naming a new county. George D. Tillman on Saturday had succeeded in getting the county named Butler. Senator Tillman was absent at the time, and upon returning he moved to change the name to Saluda. In a passionate speech he charged Senator Butler with being a traitor to the party and said that to name a county after him was an insult to the reformers of the state. George D. Tillman in reply taunted him brother with fighting a man whom he had defeated.

Senator Tillman in his speech taunted Senator Irby with not replying to his brother, G. D. Tillman, on Saturday, and Irby in a hot speech denounced Tillman for stirring up strife in the convention, and said it came with ill grace from a man to hound his fallen foe, and declared that Butler in patriotism, honesty and courage was the equal of Tillman or any other man in the state. When the vote was finally obtained Senator Tillman carried his point and the new county was named Saluda instead of Butler by a vote of 80 to 54.

MEXICO TO RECOGNIZE CUBA,

So Cuban Sympathizers in New York Say —Card from President Palma.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Cuban sympathizers in this city said last night that Mexico will recognize the insurgents as belligerents within a few days. They based their assertion on private dispatches received from the City of Mexico, which say that the Mexican foreign office has positively promised the recognition of the Cuban insurgents and that the other South American states will follow rapidly.

T Estrada Palma, president of the provisional government of Cuba, has issued a card in which he says that reports of agents of the junta enlisting men in this country for service in Cuba are false, and that "The Cuban junta shall not knowingly violate the laws of the United States, and it knows that enlisting men for military service is a violation of the law. Moreover, the Cuban revolution is in no need of men. What it needs is arms and ammunition for thousands of men who so far are supplied with no other weapon than the machete. Arms and ammunition the junta can buy within the law and will do so without concealment."

Terrible Rumor at Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—There is a vague report current here that a North German Lloyd steamship has been sunk and 156 persons drowned. The rumor does not state the name of the vessel or the locality of the accident, but inquiries are being made.

Makes a Precedent in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Judge Dellenbaugh, of the common please court, has handed down a decision of unusual interest, being probably without precedent in Ohio. A man named Collin Ross struck a child, Bertha Rosenberg, with an empty crock, the girl having accidentally thrown water from a house upon Ross. He was arrested on the charge of assault and battery and fined in police court, but the fine was never paid. Later the child died and Ross, who was again arrested for manslaughter, set up the defence that he had stood trial once and had been fined and could not be tried again. Judge Dellenbaugh decides that Ross must stand trial for manslaughter.

Another Attack on Stanford's Estate.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The people of the United States began the second attack upon the Stanford estate in the circuit court of appeals in a suit involving $15,000,000. When the case was heard in the United States district court the demurrer interposed by the defense was sustained, so the case never actually came to trial. It was considered a victory for the widow of the late senator, however, for her attorney was upheld in every point. I. D. McKissick, attorney for the government, has begun his argument on appeal.

Window Glass Combine Is Complete.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Arrangements for a combine of all window glass manufacturers in the western district have been perfected and the price of window glass advanced 8½ to 9 per cent. Hereafter the entire product of the seventy window glass concerns in the district, whose capacity is in the neighborhood of 5,000,000 boxes a year—$12,000,000 worth—will pass through the hands of but two sales agents, one at Pittsburg and another at Muncie, Ind.

Great Strike in the Coke Region.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 17.—The convention at Scottdale declaring for a general strike in the coke region has given the men great encouragement. Reports from all parts of the region are to the effect that the men are perfecting their organization and henceforth will act in unison. The strike, which is expected to start at any time, will undoubtedly overrun the whole region without delay.

Fox River Men Can Have Water.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The acting secretary of war has issued an order revoking a former order of the department regarding the Fox river in Wisconsin. The paper mills on the Fox river will now be permitted to draw off 40,000 cubic feet per minute, provided the level of the water does not fall eighteen inches below the crest of the dam at Menasha.

Veterans Invading Tennessee, In Peace This Time.

CHATTANOOGA FULL OF PEOPLE

To Witness the Exercises of Dedicating the Great Battlefields as a National Park, Which Begin Tomorrow—Twenty-five Governors To Be on Hand, with Many Other Notables—Indications That the Attendance Will Be Immense.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 17.—This thriving, energetic business center of the south is as active as a California gold-mining town during a boom. With every hour that passes the population is increased by thousands, and busses, carriages and wagons, with multitudes of people, throng the principal streets. The throngs of visitors are largely made up of veterans and their families or friends, who have come to see the great National park dedicated. Owing to the fact that the park extends over a distance of nearly twenty miles there has been no crush in the city. Some of the visitors are lodging at Lookout mountain, some along Mission Ridge, some at Rossville, and some at Snodgrass Hill, or in that vicinity.

Twenty-five Governors to Be Present.

The dedication of the park will mark the second great historic event of this region, and the people appreciate it. The battle in memory of which this park is to be dedicated was the first. At this great commemoration there will be present more governors, temporary kings, as it were, than the world ever saw so far as known before. They will represent millions of people and the states over which they rule represent billions in money. Twenty-five governors will be present; the vice president of the United States will be here; President Cleveland's cabinet; twenty-two senators; forty-two congressmen; many generals of the army that was in the days of '61 to '65. Among the governors who will be present are those of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin. Mayor Ochs and the leading business men of the city declare they will be able to care for the multitudes they have been assured will come.

Expect Seventy-Five Thousand Visitors.

It is estimated by the various passenger agents centered here that by noon today the number of visitors will be more than 35,000. Hundreds of excursion trains have been advertised to come from Atlanta, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago and other metropolitan points. Some of the passenger agents estimate that there will have arrived from 60,000 to 75,000 strangers by tomorrow morning, the day on which the exercises open. The thrift and energy of the people of Chattanooga has been displayed in the vigorous preparations they are making to handle the crowds.

Every Citizen a Bureau of Information.

Every persons who owns a vehicle and a team within a radius of thirty miles has been advised to bring it in to aid in hauling the visitors from the electric and steam railway limits to the National park. Strict watch will be kept by the city police in connection with those of the park to prohibit exorbitant charges. All the citizens of the town have agreed to wear white ribbons on their right arm so that the visitors may know them in case they want information.

EMPIRE STATE REPUBLICANS.

No Change in the Situation as to the Excise Law—Depew's Straight Talk.

SARATOGA, Sept. 17.—The hotels are crowded and all of the delegates to the Republican convention are here, but despite that fact not a condition has changed and the ticket and platform as detailed yesterday are unchanged. The platform was finished last evening and the state committee looked it over. It will not be changed in its salient points, and the only discussion seems to be as to whether the question of Sunday liquor selling should be touched upon. The leaders are as determined as ever to dodge the issue, but others are as determined that it shall not be dodged.

Chauncey M. Depew talked straight to the Republican editors at their meeting last night. "Why," said Depew, "I have only been here a few hours and I have seen leaders' opinions change like a straw in a heavy wind. The theory of the Republican party should be clearly defined on this excise question. It should not hesitate or shirk. It should come out squarely one way or the other, either for enforcement or against. If for it you will get the German vote, if against it you will get the church and school vote, but if neither for or against it you will disgust the people, make them doubt our sincerity and lose their entire vote."

Judgment Against a Life Company.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—Judge Thayer, in the United States circuit court of appeals, has affirmed the judgment of the trial court in favor of Nancy K. Florida against the Ætna Life Insurance company on two policies on her husband's life, aggregating $15,000. Alonzo K. Florida took poison April 27, 1893, and the Ætna company refused to pay the policies on the ground that Florida contemplated suicide at the time he took out the insurance.

Quinlan and Wife Sue Chicago Police.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Two suits, each for $20,000 damages, have been filed against Chief of Police Badenoch and Inspector Fitzpatrick by Patrick Quinlan and his wife, who for nearly a month were held by the police on suspicion of having guilty knowledge of Holmes' crimes. Chief Badenoch says that the Quinlans were never under actual arrest, but remained at the station of their own volition to assist the police.

Lonsdale Praises Kaiser Billy.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The Tageblatt publishes an interview with Lord Lonsdale, who has been unofficially the guest of the emperor during the Stettin manœuvers, in which he praised the German cavalry, but declared that the performances of the infantry were marvelous and beyond praise. Emperor William's perception, energy, foresight and comprehensiveness proved him to be a man of genius.

Test of the Texas Prize Fight Law.

DALLAS, Sept. 17.—Before Chief Justice Hurt of the court of appeals, argument was submitted in the habeas corpus proceedings by which Cavanaugh and Clark, who engaged in a glove contest here two weeks ago, seek to settle the question as to the Texas prize fight law.

FUNERAL OF JOHN V. EUSTACE

Buried at Rockford Yesterday—Untimely Death.

The Rockford Register-Gazette has this to say of the late John V. Eustace who e death was such a shock to the many loved friends here in Dixon, where he was born and so highly respected:

The remains of J. V. Eustace, who died in Chicago late Friday afternoon of pleuro pneumonia, were brought to Rockford this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock over the Northwestern, being accompanied by his family and friends. They were taken direct to the home of his father-in-law, Daniel Goodlander.

The first intimation his host of friends in Rockford had of his illness was the announcement in the Register-Gazette last evening that he was dying in Chicago and later a telegram followed to the effect that the dread summons had come. The news of his demise was a great shock to many, for no young man ever went out of Rockford who had more friends or was better liked.

John Eustace was born at Dixon 36 years ago, being a son of the late Judge Eustace who was one of the ablest jurists that ever sat on the bench in this circuit. John received his early education in the public schools of Dixon, and later graduated from the law department of the University of Michigan, although he decided not to follow that profession.

For a number of years he held a responsible position with Emerson, Talcott & Co. When the Illinois Central road was built through this city by Ryan, McDonald & Co., Mr. Eustace took a position with them, being superintendent of a certain section of the work. Half a dozen years ago he removed to Chicago, being engaged in the quarry business the larger part of the time since leaving Rockford.

Mr. Eustace was married to Miss Emma Goodlander, daughter of Daniel Goodlander of this city, in December, 1882, and their life has always been a very happy one. No children were born to them. Besides the widow, the deceased leaves a mother, who lives at Minneapolis, and one brother, Thos. H. Eustace, who is well known in Rockford.

John V. Eustace was one of the most genial men Rockford has ever claimed as a citizens, and it is doubtful if he had an enemy on earth. Possessed of a sunny disposition, always looking on the bright side of life, he made friends quickly and held them firmly. Courteous and affable at all times, he was indeed a typical husband and friend. In a business way he was prompt, accurate and honest in all his dealings, and socially a favorite during his residence in Rockford. His life was full of promise and a very large number of warm personal friends in this city will with the bereaved family mourn his untimely death.

The funeral will be held from the home of Daniel Goodland, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. Walter M. Barrows officiating.

The bearers will be Messrs. W. T. Robertson, A. C. Deming, W. T. Pierpoint, Chandler Starr, Edgar E. Bartlett and W. F. Woodruff.

ENCAMPMENT OF COSSACKS.

An Equestrian Tournament With These Fierce Warriors Entered.

GENUINE wild and fierce Cossacks in a real encampment is one of the novel features with Barnum and Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth. In this scene, so full of life and realism, a body of real Cossacks, together with their women, children, Tartary horses, accoutrements, tents, weapons, implements, and domestic utensils, give varied and picturesque views of all their phases of life, from the cradle to the grave. Wild feats of horsemanship, entirely different from any ever seen here before, are displayed just as they are when these warriors of the Czar are at home. Rifles are discharged with astonishing precision, while the men stand erect in the saddle upon galloping horses. Again other views show how these people use their horses in war, and, forming them as breastworks, fire at the foe from behind the prostrate animals. Religious rites are re-enacted, and marriage and festal dances and ceremonies are shown, as well as the manner of using their, to us, crude tools, agricultural implements and musical instruments. Almost their whole life and history is illustrated in the various scenes witnessed. They also take an active part in the great equestrian tournament, and with their horses enter as contestants with the high and long-distance jumping horses of this country. A May-pole dance and a fox-hunters' meet are also parts of this tournament. The Cossacks, too, form a separate group in the Ethnological Congress of strange and savage tribes, where they form an interesting contrast to the many other groups, such as Apaches, Moquis, Muras, Navajos, Mohaves, Cliff Dwellers, Canjones, Samoans, Fijians, South Sea and Gilbert Islanders, Turks, Armenians, Carjones, Yumas, Nubians, Moors, Soudanese, Algerians, Singhalese, Cannibals, Japanese, and others. It may be said of this department of the show that it is most wonderful, and exceedingly interesting from every point. So many religions are represented, too, among them, Buddhists, Vishnus, Hindus, Mohammedans, Sivas, Pagans, Idolators, Cannibals, Fire and Sun Worshipers, and Christians. Then there is a veritable Midway formed of the huts, tents, wigwams, canoes, weapons, tools, musical instruments, and other paraphernalia of these strange people, together with their wives and families, and they all exhibit some characteristic accomplishments, showing how they use their weapons, accompanied with dancing and singing. The visitor is again wonderfully interested in the monster Johanna, the only gorilla in captivity, whose astonishing and most human-like appearance and actions are startling to every beholder. Two menageries of trained and wild beasts are an invaluable source of interest to every one, with the fifty cages of rare and curious quadrupeds, but in addition to these is the trained animal exhibition, where ferocious and domestic beasts obey the word of an unarmed man, and perform marvelous feats in a big steel-barred arena. Three rings, two stages, a race track, and the animal arena are necessary to show the 100 acts of the circus, where there are as many as 300 different expert performers in all lines, and sixteen champion bareback male and female riders. It is truly a marvelous show, and will be here, undivided, on Thursday, September 19, 1895, with a new street parade in the morning, showing living representatives of all the rulers of the world, the military uniforms of all nations, nursery rhymes, and children's fables and stories.

Niman-McMaster Wedding.

This morning at 9 o'clock at the parochial residence, took place the marriage of Miss Katherine McMaster and Frank Niman, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Foley. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white silk and carried white roses. The groom wore the usual black. They were attended by Miss Mary McMaster, sister of the bride, and Harry Sprecker of Polo. After the ceremony they returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McMaster, parents of the bride, where an elegant breakfast awaited them. They departed east on the 11 o'clock train and expect to spend a week in Chicago and Milwaukee, after which they will be at home to their many friends in Polo. The friends and relatives wish for the groom and his fair young bride a long life of unalloyed happiness. The bride is a young lady much beloved by a large circle of friends, and this marriage will knit closely the bond of friendship between Polo and Dixon.
